

Expert hearing care, personalised to you

Your next step to hearing with confidence

Audika

Your hearing is our expertise

It often starts with small moments...

You might notice it yourself.

Or it may be something you've started to notice in someone close to you.

A conversation that's harder to follow.

A question that needs repeating.

A moment where it feels easier to smile and nod than ask again.

Sometimes it's subtle.

Sometimes it builds over time.

But gradually, it can begin to affect how connected you feel – to people, to conversations, to everyday life.

Does this feel familiar?

You, or someone close to you, may have noticed that you are:

- ✓ Finding it harder to follow conversations
- ✓ Struggling in busy environments like restaurants or group settings
- ✓ Asking people to repeat themselves more often
- ✓ Turning the volume up on the TV
- ✓ Feeling more tired after social situations

These changes often happen gradually, so it's not always clear how much they're affecting everyday life.

For many people, it's family or friends who notice the changes first.

If this feels familiar, you're in the right place.

With over 14,000 five-star Trustpilot reviews, more than 170,000 customers across the UK trust us to look after their hearing care needs.

You're not alone

Hearing loss is more common than many people realise. One in three people experience some degree of hearing loss – that's 18 million in the UK[1]

"It's the best thing I've ever done. I feel like I can live the life I should have been living for the last 50 years. I'm on cloud nine."

Extensive support & aftercare

We'll always be here to help you navigate your hearing journey, every step of the way.

As your hearing needs change, we'll continue to support you, helping you stay connected to the people, moments and sounds that matter most.

What to expect at your free appointment

Your first step is a free hearing test appointment with one of our audiologists. It usually lasts around an hour, so there's time to understand your hearing properly without feeling rushed.

We'll talk through your experiences, any concerns you may have, and the situations in which you find hearing is more difficult.

Before your appointment

It's important to think about:

- ✓ When you notice changes in your hearing
- ✓ The situations you find more difficult
- ✓ Whether someone can come along with you to your appointment

During your appointment

You'll get:

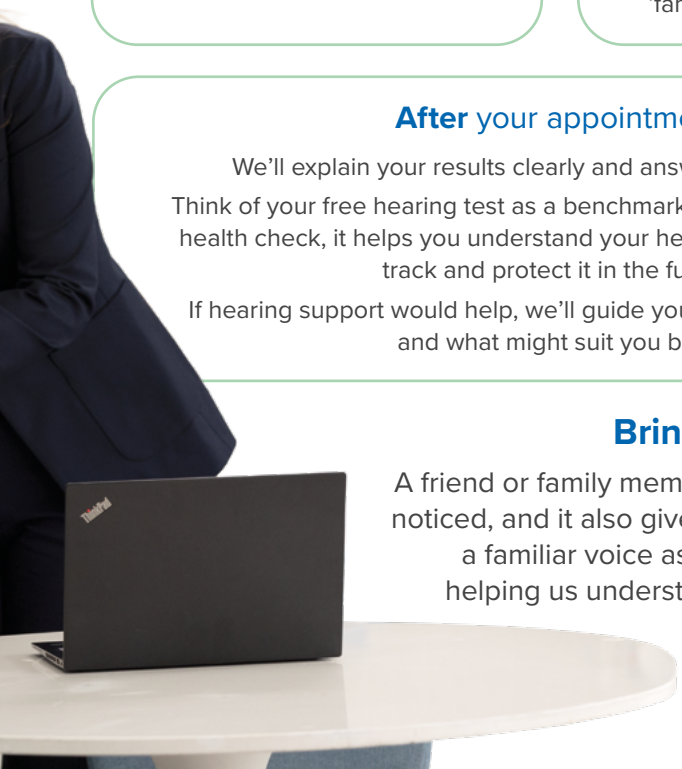

- ✓ An understanding of how you hear, through a series of straightforward tests
- ✓ A clear picture of your hearing in different situations
- ✓ The opportunity to include a friend or family member in the 'familiar voice' test

After your appointment

We'll explain your results clearly and answer any questions.

Think of your free hearing test as a benchmark. Just like an eye test or health check, it helps you understand your hearing today, so you can track and protect it in the future.

If hearing support would help, we'll guide you through your options and what might suit you best.

Bring someone you trust

A friend or family member can share what they've noticed, and it also gives us the chance to include a familiar voice as part of your assessment – helping us understand your hearing in a more natural, everyday way.
